The SPOTLIGHT ON GARRETT

Above are the eight men who have focused the brilliant beam of publicity upon Oliver B. Garrett, Rep. Sawyer and Senator Mulhern are the ones who, in the House and the Senate, led the fight for the investigation. Atty-

Gen. Warner is directing the investigation. Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Hall is doing the questioning, assisted by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Laurie. Asst. Atty.-Gen. Sawyer and Clapp are also ably assisting.

Atty. Bickford is credited with having induced Sullivan, proprietor of the defunct Hotel Ritz, to testify, following a conference with Sullivan and his attorneys. The former hotel man then "spilled the beans" by making allegations implicating Garrett and other men in the acceptance of run protection bribes. Garrett was not present while Sullivan testified and at other times during the inquiry he has sat as he is shown here, asleep or thinking—what?

LAUNCHING OF
BE SECRET

A veil of secrecy was thrown about J. Pierpont Morgan's $2,000,000 yacht Corsair II today with the announcement by the builders at Bath, Me., that the financier ordered all information on the craft withheld.

At the request of Morgan the Bath Iron Works announced, the launching Thursday is to be strictly private, and no information on the description or measurements of the craft is to be given.

One thing he hasn't installed, however, is a stabilizer for his likes.

Her length of 343 feet will make her the largest pleasure craft in the world. She is 10 feet longer than the German-built Orion.

The original Corsair, a palatial yacht herself, was turned over to the government by Morgan a year ago, to be used as an experiment Passage of the measure is expected by Republican House leaders to come on Thursday.

Little opposition is apparent either in the majority or minority.

With the consolidation of the three agencies the annual outlay will amount to $780,000,000.

Lansing, Mich., April 8 (AP)—Mrs. Olga Mae Miller, Lansing grandmother, once sentenced to life imprisonment for violating the State prohibition law, has been assured continued liberty today by a decision of the Michigan Supreme Court.

According to Senator Seymour H. Person, Mrs. Miller's attorney, the Supreme Court's ruling in the Cuthbertson case makes it impossible for the State to prosecute her again.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY Antiquarian Society in New Home

ON APRIL 19, MR. ALAN Conard, president of the Concord Antiquarian Society, announces the new building of the society will be opened to the public. Tea will be served on the lawn and many prominent society leaders will appear, among them Mrs. Alan French, Mrs. Herbert H. Hoser, Mrs. John Morse, Mrs. Fred Tower, Mrs. Henry F. Smith, Mrs. H. E. Kyrle and Mrs. Gaylord Cummin. The society has in its keeping many precious antiques which were not safe in the old building and the new structure provides adequate space for display, for appropriate setting and for protection. The entire group of Ralph Waldo Emerson is to be transferred to the new, and the room will be given over to the possession of Henry David Thoreau. The interior which Paul Revere used that historic night is to have a shrine. Much of the woodwork of the house has a romantic memory connected with it. The banisters in the staircases are from the John Hancock House. Bricks for the fireplace are from old New England homes, the wood for the floors and beamed ceilings are from historic settings. The kitchen will be used as a meeting place for the society. In all there are 11 rooms in the building, each representing a period in history.

HIGHER IDEALS ARE TAUGHT ALIEN TOTS

By NANCY BREWSTER
How Boston school children are being trained to inculcate in American children an appreciation for the wonderful contributions of music, art and literature brought to our shores by immigrants, was told to the International Union conference today at the Children's Settlement, by Miss Mary Chason Slute of Teachers' College.

Miss Slute, in charge of kindergarten education at Teachers' College, told the conference how young teachers are breaking down barriers between foreign-born parents and their American-born children by encouraging the children to speak more than one language and by early developing right racial attitude.

"The children of foreign born parents have a new respect for their parents' native tongue and of the accomplishments of their elders when these things are held up for American children to emulate," Miss Slute said. For instance, the casual reference to a person to speak two or more languages in one room alone resulted in these children proudly displaying their knowledge of other tongues in eight different languages.

Such accomplishments promote better feeling between American children and those of foreign born parents, she pointed out. "This seems to me worth more than many other things that are being taught in our public schools," Miss Slute declared.

Mrs. Charles H. Danforth, state chairman of International Unity in the Federation, presided.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS
Mrs. J. Verity Smith will preside at the annual spring business meeting of the Greater Boston Guardians of the Camp Fire Girls at their headquarters on Commonwealth ave. Plans for helping make Better Homes Week a success in Boston and for assisting in National Health Day celebration on May 3 will be discussed with other business.

DORCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB
Daughters of members are entertaining the club this afternoon with a program on which the Girl Scouts present a pageant, followed by dance numbers. Miss Lella Price is the solo dancer, assisted by a group including Miss Charlotte Louise Coffin, Virginia Wilson, Valerie Deane, Ruth Boland, Patricia Dabney, Doris Eichert, Eleanor Knight and Reryl Sutherland.

"Merry Mount" is the title of the opera by Dr. Hansen and Stokes. Dr. Hansen is the composer, and Stokes is the librettist. The libretto is an original dramatic poem by Stokes, based on an incident in the history of colonial Massachusetts. It is in three acts of six scenes. The first act and part of the second were written in New York city. Stokes completed the book last summer in St. Pierre-Miquelon, in St. John's, and Cornbrook, Newfoundland, and in Glasgow, Scotland. Dr. Hansen's latest work, "A Romantic Symphony," as yet unpublished, was co-composed by Serge Koussevitzky for next season's semi-centennial celebration of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Suit of Knitted Fabric Is Smart and Wearable for Street or Country Use

THERE is nothing quite so smart or so wear as the important three-piece suit of knitted fabric. It lends itself to both city and country wearing for a morning of strenuous shopping or a morning of strenuous golf, and it becomes thus versatile because of the recent improvement in the wearing of such materials, and the expert tailoring they are boasting.

Knitted fabrics that have the look and feel of tweeds are among the outstanding successes for the spring and summer.

The sports suit pictured is of tweed rib knit. The skirt is beautifully tailored, with intricate cuttings and seamings, forming wide circular front section set on deep hip yoke. The waist length coat buttons below the green suede belt, its pointed patch pockets and turn back cuffs outlined in green. The blouse is of deep cream crepe, the V-neck ending in bow tie, and skirt of self-covered buttons down the center front.

The bloused hat is of fine smooth straw, slightly wider at sides, short across back, and finished with flat grosgrain ribbon bow, and cord of same about crown. Pull on washable gloves, and one strap pumps, of dark green knit, are smart accessories.

Tweed bags are voluminously smart and often appear in large shapes. Often they are made of variegated tweeds—gray, blue and green is a favorite combination topped with a gray crystal frame. Spectator sports shoes adhere to classic tradition, being either two-tone oxfords or opera pumps with leather heels.

A CLEVER monogram fob to hang from the breast pocket of the tailored suit recalls another "quaint" fashion in these backward-looking style days. The watch bob at the belt was one of mother's smartest accessories, we remember. The monogram on it crystal is a beautiful note to add to the trim simplicity of the suit. Of course such an accessory absolutely precludes any possibility of anonymity but that should be no drawback.

Whether the belt would increase in importance with the return of the waistline to normalcy is a question answered by the appearance of some unusual and clever belt buckles and ornaments. Two tiny bottles of mother of pearl are linked together to form the buckle of one belt. Another belt has an elastic insert adorned with bright modern ornaments of galah. This effect is repeated in a bracelet that is to be worn with the belt.

Now that the bare are down we find that the women are not so ready to talk about this question. Mrs. Halden, speaking at the fourth annual Republican school of politics, said that the Republicans of Massachusetts are the only party in the state with an organization for superior to anything the state has known in the past. She emphasized the result has been very bene-

CONCERT-DUO IN UNUSUAL RECITAL

By MOSES SMITH
Alice Armstrong Kimball, local soprano, and Jacobus Langenberg, cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, gave a joint concert last night at the Boston Music Hall. The program, during the playing of which they were warmly and enthusiastically applauded, included a Sonata in G major by Beethoven and short solo pieces and an aria from Mozart's "Il Flauto Magico" and French and Italian songs, two of which were in the recital of the evening. There was also Chausson's "Le Châli" for the two performers in their own hands. Mrs. Kimball has a fine lyric voice, usually of clear and golden quality, though occasionally it goes flat and white, to misanthropes. Mr. Langenberg is an impeccable musician, his unusual skill in rapid passage work and his pure though not warm tone gave pleasure to the listener. He was at his best, probably, in an aria by Max Regier, heard here for the first time, pathos modeled on Bach yet of such ingenious harmonic construction as to place it in the rank of original music.

Something to Think About

Editor Boston American:

I am writing in answer to the letter of the Wife of a Loyal Postal Clerk, who says Uncle Sam takes good care of his help. I wonder if her husband was ever a substitute clerk and if she was married when he went through that period.

My husband is a substitute carrier now for nearly four years and I guess by the looks of things, he will be for four more years. He gave up a good job as he thought he was bettering himself, but it seems to be getting worse every day, and is pretty hard when you are trying to bring up a family, living on the wages he gets.

The men in the postoffices that were closed did not lose their jobs but they could have appointed some substitutes if they hadn't closed the offices.

Would like to hear what some other substitute clerks and carriers' wives think of conditions.

Liberty Means Freedom to Commit Crime

Editor Boston American:

In the exposure now being made through the investigation of Alvin Karpis, we learn what liberty means to those who have no money since prohibition was enacted. We are the ones to which they put their liberty. To them liberty means freedom to commit every crime on the calendar unmolested.

Hypocrisy is another word overworked by this same clique. They prove themselves to be the hypocrites, as the only kind of liberty they want is liberty to break the laws. When it is in their power to take away this liberty of the decent they invariably do it.

Old Actor Joined in Carrick Tribute

Editor Boston American:

One of the most pathetic touches at the funeral of Sam Carrick last week, was this one which has just come to light. George Wilson, once connected with the Boston Museum as an actor, now 81 years old, was for many years a constant companion of Sam in his early journalistic days, and was bent on paying his last respects to him.

He struggled along to the home, where the service was held, carrying a rose, which he wanted to place upon the casket. But alas! he lost his way in endeavoring to locate the place. He arrived after the service, but just in time to hand his treasured rose to the undertaker, who placed it upon the casket as it was resting in the auto hearse about to be carried to Mt. Auburn.

Nothing but Kicks
in World Today

Editor Boston American:

Some people want something to kick about. If they cannot kick at something, they are out of their element. You see this every day in Boston. Prohibition offers something to kick about. Humanism in the Unitarian church yields much to squatter over. Senator Borah supported Hoover in the past campaign, because he was afraid Smith would not give him anything to kick about.

Some are kicking like a young steer because they want modification of the Eighteenth Amendment. Up to Jackson Hill they are kicking over smoke from the State House.

Another group with a chip on their shoulder, want the note stopped on Tremont st. Every evening at 6:30 on the Harvard subway, people on roads to Arlington and other places kick because more cars are not run at that time to accommodate the thousands of Protestants kick at the corner of Washington and Summer st., because the traffic cop keeps crowd waiting five minutes for the signal to cross.

Rough Going Ahead
for Marathoners

Editor Boston American:

What is the Marathon race to do this year, as the road between Natick and Wellesley is closed to the public, where extensive repairs are going on?

There is a detour for auto, but what are the runners to do? Is it the time to agitate re-serving such space for the runners and not forcing them to take the detour. Nothing has been done about this as yet. May I ask your paper to agitate this matter and co-operate with those who are interested in this race.

ENFORCEMENT DIFFICULT
Enforcement of a liquor law here is becoming more difficult because the legal sale of liquor is now being offered more easily and broadly than it was previously. The liquor stores operated by the officers in obtaining evidence of liquor sales in bawdy houses and fortified places.

The police are seldom able to apprehend proprietors of liquor nuisances because they are rarely seen upon the premises and are invariably absent when their unfortunate agents are trapped.

"The police alone cannot stop violations of the prohibitory laws. When the police have detected and apprehended violators of the liquor laws and have presented evidence to the court, they have fulfilled their part of the liquor enforcement problem.

FFV AUTOS CONFISCATED

Whether habitual offenders can be held responsible for liquor laws continue in their practices is a problem for the courts to solve.

"Although illegal transportation of liquor is now a criminal offense under the laws of this state, the legal transportation of liquor by operators of which were convicted have been returned by order of the court, to the owners because the operator was not convicted of keeping a place for sale of liquor."

"No motor vehicle can be forfeited as an implement of sale unless the operator is not only convicted of transporting liquor illegally but also convicted of keeping and exposing a place for sale."

'Equity proceedings were taken against several places where liquor nuisances existed and injunctions or "padlocks" were obtained.

'The actual working of the padlock law has clearly demonstrated that the fear of injunction operates a salutary effect upon this type of property owner who is desirous of obtaining revenue from his property.

ATTACK POWER TRUST A 'DANGEROUS' AT STATE HOUSE HEARING

BIG SYSTEMS HOLD GAGS ON BUSINESS

Arthur D. Hill Attacks N. E. Power Association as the "Trust" Hearings Start

The New England Power Association was today characterized as a vast "conspiracy against business" by Arthur D. Hill at the opening session of a series of public hearings before the Legislative Committee on Power and Light.

Hill, counsel for the special commission which investigated power trusts in this state, following evidence that newspapers were being bought up by the Trusts before the Federal Trade Commission in Washington.

The findings of the majority of the commission, including his bill recommending for improvement of the industry, and the minority report of Representative Leo M. McLaughlin of Boston, which the majority members for their part in the regulation of holding companies, were the first matters taken up by the committee.

The other civil systems he said were being organized to hold the operating companies. The first of these he declared was the New England Power Co., which operates in the center of the state.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Boston Elevated Co., the board of directors was elected.

James A. Bailey, Matthew C. Bush, Bartlett Harwood, Joseph P. Manning, Edwin M. Richards, James L. Richards, Frank L. Rich, Edward R. Russell, and Walter Turnbull, Jr., composed the board.

A report of the directors, outlining what may be done to the Elevated Co., was submitted to the stockholders, but owing to the stockholders' vote of the board will be mailed.

The report calls attention to the fact that at the election in November the voters in the metropolitan district will be asked to elect three persons to the board of directors.

The first step in the return of the Elevated to the common ownership and the termination of public ownership, the second call a continuation of public management.

In accordance with such terms and conditions as may be agreed to by the stockholders, the third provides for the purchase by the metropolitan transit district of the assets and franchises of the Boston Elevated Railway Co.

Retail Druggists To Get Together

The Boston Association of Retail Druggists, headed by Benjamin Friedman, will hold their annual "Retail Druggists" meeting for members and clerks at the Hotel Statler tomorrow evening.

Police examinations of policemen who are candidates for the rank of sergeant in the New Boston police department will be held on Saturday of this week in the Newton Technical high school.

Boston Boys Who Do Not Go South for Their Spring Practice

GALE BALKS N. Y. BIKE TRIP

Balked by a sou'west gale, Harvard's bike camp was held in bed today, but New York trip abandoned until the blow has blown off.

John C. Richardson, senior and football player, decided not to weather the heavy wind for the outdoor trip, at least until tomorrow.

Wind and weather permitting, Fred has waited two days now for a chance to win a 50-mile ride.

Honeymoon in Clouds

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jewett looked pretty for the cameraman when they descended at the Boston Airport after an aerial honeymoon trip from Pittsburgh, where they were married. Bride was Miss Doris Jackson. They'll visit Florida.

FATHER-IN-LAW SUED BY BRIDE

Charging that Albert H. French, Milton and wife, stole and seduced her, Mrs. Peggy Lucille French, 215 North St., Boston, has filed suit against her father-in-law for $10,000 in Middlesex Superior Court.

She also charges that French, who is 52, seduced and induced her to marry him, and that he has since then kept her in a state of slavery and has affected her mind.

The younger French met her wife in Baltimore, Sept. 1, 1928, after a rapid courtship. The allusion followed shortly, but he returned to her in Boston.

He then deserted her in a few weeks, the wife alleges, and was aided by his father, who is 62.

At the present time, she works for her father in the real estate business, she says.

Mrs. French has a small apartment, furnished entirely with things she brought with her from Baltimore, she says. During the two weeks she lived here together before he went to Michigan, Mrs. French alleged her husband and his father treated her heavily and she was obliged to pay off the debt on her own.

She now has a married woman living with her, she says, and manages to support herself with the aid of her family.

She is retaining an attorney, Miss Golda Richmond, a graduate of the U. S. law school.

Newton Asks for Pageant Musicians

A call for volunteer musicians to take part in the Newton Town Meeting pageant in June was issued today by C. C. Chase, chairman of the pageant.

Musicians who can play the full instrumental ensemble are desired, according to Chase.

FOR SPORTS—CALL LIBERTY 4000 TUESDAY, APRIL 8, 1930 FOR SPORTS—CALL LIBERTY 4000

ROCKY STONE SUMMONED BY FOLEY

TODAY, my little humming bird, we will consider the case of the Hon. Red Sox. Will the team, guided by Henry Wiggin, be any better than the one of old Bill Carrigan? The answer is, it will, quite a bit better.

The Sox have been having a very good season since the start of the season. They have won 100 games and lost 50. They are now in the lead of the American League.

Henry Wiggin, the new manager, has been very successful. He has won 100 games and lost 50. He is now in the lead of the American League.

The Sox will play hard and smart and beat the Red Sox through, under a driving pilot that will mean much.

And that move seems to have been the proper medicine. Regan has been playing superbly since the opening of the season. He has won 100 games and lost 50.

Old favorites are among the entries in the B. A. Marathon to be held on April 19.
